

61. Gore Mountain Summit

After leaving the open pit garnet mine of the Barton Mines Corporation the summit of Gore Mountain is reached by a trail that heads southward from near the east end of the open pit mine (now abandoned).

The view from the summit is superb with the High Peaks to the North, the Siamese Wilderness to the south and west and lesser mountains easterly with the Green Mountains in the far distance. The nearby Pond to the southwest is Second Pond while Botheration Flow is north of it several miles.

Gore Mt. is the center piece of a host of ski trails which lead northeasterly from the Summit. One of them can be followed down to North Creek.
