

Early voting starts Saturday!

Warren County Board of Elections will be offering early voting at Warren County Human Services Building starting at 9 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 24 and running through Sunday, Nov. 1.

Early voting operates the same as voting on Election Day, just at one centralized polling place. Any registered Warren County voter can come to the polling place at the Human Services Building, no matter where you normally vote.

You show up, check in with poll workers and receive your ballot. Fill it out and cast it, and you are done.

The polling place will be in the Human Services Building, which is located on the south end of the Warren County Municipal Center Campus at 1340 State Route 9 in Queensbury.

If entering the campus from Route 9, bear right and the Human Services Building will be the first building on your right. If entering from Glen Lake Road, the building will be the first on your left. Park in front of the building and signs will direct you to the designated entrance.

Please note that, under the current health emergency, masks or face coverings will be required. The polling place will also be limited to 10 voters at a time, so a wait may be required.
