

FORBES Sept. 20, 2018 Here's A List Of Every City In The US To Ban Plastic Bags, Will Your City Be Next? Trevor Nace Contributor Science

Here we've collected the 349 known cities, counties, and states to have, in some way, banned or taxed plastic bag use.

Reuse This Bag estimates that a plastic bag has a 12-minute lifespan from when it's initially filled with groceries at the grocery store to when it is discarded. Compare this with estimates that those same plastic bags take anywhere from 10 to 1,000 years to decompose depending on what environmental conditions the bag is disposed of in. Quickly, the picture becomes clear that for a few minutes of use, plastic bags weigh heavily on long-term environmental impact.

These bags eventually make their way to landfills and into our oceans, adding to the 8 million metric tons of plastic entering the ocean every year. This impact every scale of marine ecosystems, from bottom feeders and microorganisms to whales.

Currently, only Hawaii and California have statewide plastic bag bans, with several other cities having either mandatory recycling programs, taxes on plastic bag use, etc.

When you zoom out on a global scale, we find dozens of countries that have banned single-use plastic bags. While many countries around the world have taken the steps to ban plastic bags country-wide, the United States has taken a piecemeal approach.

When looking through the list of cities that have partially or wholly banned plastic bags, it's important to note this is an active area of legislation. Local governments across the United States have plans to vote on a ban in the coming years. If you'd like to use a great interactive map of each state, visit Bag The Ban.
